George Eliot's Face.

The face was one of a group of four, not all equally like each other, but all of the same spiritual family, and with a curious interdependence of likeness. These four are Dante, Shakespeare, Cardinal Newman and herself. We only know one such other group, and that consisting of three only. It is that formed of the traditional head of Christ, the well-known profile of a coin, Shakespeare and St. Ignatius Loyola. In the group of which George Eliot was one there is the same straight wall of brow; the droop of the powerful nose; mobile lips, touched with strong passion kept resolutely under control; a square jaw which would make the face stern were it not counteracted by the sweet smile of lips and eye. We can hardly hope that posterity will ever know her from likenesses as those who had the honor of her acquaintance knew her in life. Only some world's artist could have handed her down as she lived, as Bellini had handed down the Dige whom we all know so well on the walls of the National Gallery. The two or three portraits that exist, though valuable, give but a very imperfect presentment. The mere shape of the head would be the first thing to any painter. It was so grand and massive that it would scarcely be possible to represent without giving the idea of disproportion to the frame, of which no one ever thought for a moment when they saw her, although it was a surprise, when she stood up, to see that after all she was a little fragile woman who bore this weight of brow and brain.—Harper's Magazine.

An Early California Theatre.

The New York Times reconstructs the following story: In the town of Monterey still stands the first theater ever opened in California, and a sumptuous structure it is. The building is of adobe, low, flat, one story, at present owned by John A. Swan, a pioneer of 1845, and used as a tenement house. Many curious reminiscences and incidents are connected with the primitive theater. The first piece presented there was "Romeo and Juliet," the late John Phoenix (George H. Derby) being cast for the amorous hero. The chief trouble was to find a representative of the heroine, because in those early days the town did not contain a single English-speaking woman, young or old, ugly or handsome, ignorant or educated. But Derby, always an inveterate joker, was bound to have a Juliet. He finally hunted up a very gross German woman, weighing about 250 pounds, the wife of a soldier at the Presidio, and persuaded her to take the part. She studied the text very studiously, but her figure, manner and broken English were so ridiculous that the miners, who formed the bulk of the audience, roared through every scene, Romeo frequently uniting with them. The balcony scene was immense, as may be supposed, and was rendered particularly memorable by the "balcony" break. g down under her weight at one of the most ludicrously pathetic, or pathetically ludicrous, passages. Derby often declared that he had never seen such a Juliet, and it is altogether likely that he never had.

A Good Word for Mahone.

New York Times.
It is assured beyond all question that every power and influence which Senator Mahone may have, or can gain will be wisely and bravely used against the Bourbons of Virginia and the White League of the solid South. Whatever else may be said of the Senator, it must at least be admitted that he is the first of the so-called Southern Independents who have dared in Congress to stand up against the party lack of Democracy for what he believed to be right. His attitude is a most formidable menace to Southern Bourbonism. Already he has made it possible for black men to freely exercise the right of citizenship in Virginia, and if he has his way every one of the reconstruction acts and amendments to the National Constitution will be fully observed all over the country. It is because they are well aware of these facts that Ben Hill is so bitter in his denunciation of Senator Mahone. They fear him and the movement of which he is the head, and they may well fear him more than they do.

Mr. Hill on the Issues.

Appal.
Yesterday morning Geo. B. Hill called at the beer resort of Victor Miller and began to berate him for his neglect to vote.
"You wanted to decide the vital issues of the day."
"You issued," said Mr. Miller, as he paused in drawing a glass of beer.
"You avoided the great interests of the people's rights."
"How you do!"
"You went off fishing when our election was in progress."
"Ge villians, was dere an election? Dot's dere! I hear of it and I didn't get but two bites."

Slaves' Effervescent California Fruit Salt

Is prepared from sound, ripe fruit, by an experienced analytical chemist, who has spent years in experimenting on its preparation. It is a natural cure by a special process known only to the proprietor. (This preparation is a salt, simple and efficient medicine for regulating the action of the stomach, liver and kidneys. It is most particularly recommended for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Headache, Heartburn, Acidity of the stomach, habitual Constipation, Nausea, loss of appetite, Kidney and Liver troubles, Liver-indigestion (either in eating or drinking, etc.). As a purifier of the blood in all Scrofulous Diseases, it has no equal. It removes all eruptions from the skin and has a cooling and invigorating effect on the system. The "HEALTHY SALT" is entirely different from any of the effervescent salts or salts preparations in the market, being manufactured from Fruit. For sale by apothecaries, druggists and grocers.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.
This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold. HUB PUNCH
TO TOP OFF A DINNER.
May be Drank Clear, as a Cordial

For a dinner thoroughly appointed, the good old way was to wash down the last triumphs of the feast with copious libations of old Port and Golden Sherry; but "HUB PUNCH" has added a new sensation to the epicure. Its delicacy, aroma, flavor, and delicious, but gentle effects, proclaim it the nectar fit for the gods banqueting on Olympus.

Mix HUB PUNCH with Ice Water, Cold or Hot, Lemonade or Soda Water, and it is unanimously pronounced unrivaled.

TESTIMONIALS.
"A splendid tonic,"—James Gardner.
"Delicious beyond description,"—Boston Transcript.
"Added to the good things of the table it encourages good nature,"—Spokane Republic.

NEVADA BEEF.

How Much Does the State Produce—Who Ships It, and From Where?

Very few of the GAZETTE readers have an idea of the number of beef cattle which are shipped annually from Nevada to San Francisco. A late writer in the Bulletin says that at least two-thirds of the cattle used in the San Francisco market come from Nevada. It is estimated that the number of cattle grazing in Nevada ranges from 200,000 to 250,000, and there are probably even more. Mills & Lux of California have 10,000 head

IN NEVADA,

but Dr. Glenn and his partners have the list of cattle raisers, their combined herds aggregating about 30,000. Mr. Todhunter comes next, his cattle in this state numbering fully 25,000 head. There are, it is believed, about 100 men in Nevada engaged in cattle raising as principals; many of them, of course, on a small scale. The ranges are mostly held by possessory title only, but in some cases land controlling water privileges has been obtained by pre-emption or purchase, and the possession of the water gives control of a large area of surrounding grazing land. The cattle men of Nevada have lost more stock from hard weather than all other influences combined. They have not been troubled greatly by the diseases which have been prevalent in other places, although the "black-leg" caused considerable loss since it made its appearance in 79. Every indication this season points towards abundant water and good feed, which will no doubt materially increase cattle

SHIPMENTS FROM NEVADA.

During the next season, the cattle of Nevada destined for the California market are nearly always driven to the Central Pacific Railroad for shipment. Only about 5,000 head, on an average, are annually driven across the Sierra, through Lassen Pass, to the Sacramento Valley, there to be fattened for market. The drives in Nevada are not very long, one of the longest being for a Oregon to Reno—from 300 to 400 miles, and thousands of cattle are annually driven to the meadows in the vicinity of Reno to prepare for the San Francisco market. The cost of shipment from Reno to San Francisco is $30 a carload; from Tacoma, in the extreme eastern part of the State, it is $121. The Central Pacific Railroad Company has, in great part, created the cattle business of Nevada, by furnishing speedy transport of the beaver to a market that would, without the railroad, be inaccessible for half the year. It has also given the farmers of the fertile valley of the Truckee a home market for their hay—the facilities of transportation from Reno inducing cattle men to drive their stock here to feed, and also enabling Nevada to almost supply the San Francisco market from September to May. Winnemucca has been the principal cattle-shipping point in Nevada; Reno, Halleck, Wells, and Iron Point coming next in the order stated. The annual shipment of cattle from Nevada to the bay is about 75,000 head, an average of 200 per day, and Mr. Brooks, who has bought many thousands of Nevada cattle, estimates the average weight of a Nevada beef at 1,100 pounds, taking the average of all the shipments, which include many cows and two-year-olds.

—On Wednesday, May 18th, representatives from the various lodges of A. O. U. W. in this State will meet in Reno. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a grand lodge of the order for Nevada.

—A Carson man describes Pechner's baths as "hotter than Arizona." The wretched man did not see the cold water faucet. Pechner keeps hot and cold water, and temperature could have been moderated. Also towels, soap, etc., on Virginia street, near Barnett's.

Small-Pox.

Three new cases of small-pox were officially reported in Gold Hill yesterday. The patients are Wm. Castello, George O'Donnell, son of the well-known mining man, James O'Donnell, and Mrs. P. Boyle. A man who came from the Hill last night says there are now to his knowledge nine cases in the town. The Indians are unwelcome visitors on the Comstock, and are becoming scarce in consequence. They have been driven out of Carson, and could be spared from Reno.

Truckee Talk.

If you want to travel over the mountain roads leading from Truckee, you must take the sack along. The Republicans complain and gives as illustration the Truckee and Tahoe turnpike. For a two-horse buggy, the rate is $2; for a two-horse spring wagon, $2.25; for a four-horse stage, $6; for a six-horse stage, $14; for a four-horse freight team, $2.40; for a horseman, $1. No reductions are made to those who are compelled to travel the road every day.

Truckee Talk.

Joe Dysart tells the Republicans that he made no motion to draw a pistol, nor has he carried a weapon for five years. Dysart promises to prosecute Reed to the full extent.

Mr. Day has men at work on all the roads in this section and in a short time every one of them will be in better condition than they have been in the past. The road fund for this district is short. If Mr. Day had funds at his disposal he could put the roads in a better condition than they have ever been before; as it is, he is doing the very best he can. This week the road crew has been at work on the Prosser creek road.

The Boss Di Infection.

The Enterprise says: "Now that the small-pox has again broken out on the Comstock disinfectants will be sought. A gentleman who has had great experience in the disease, and in the South during the prevalence of yellow fever and other epidemics, called at his office last night in order to make known the following simple, cheap and powerful disinfectant: Take an old frying-pan, a shovel or any iron utensil thick enough to hold heat for a few minutes, heat it almost red-hot, and then put upon it a few spoonfuls of ground coffee in a little heap; over this put about as much sugar, and the two will fuse together. On arriving at the room or rooms to be disinfected, pour over the burning sugar and coffee about a gill of strong vinegar. A strong and pungent gas or vapor will be given out which will thoroughly disinfect the room. The articles used are to be had in every house, and will be found to be the best for purifying a room that can be employed; also will not prove disagreeable to sick persons as would carbolic acid, chloride of lime and some other disinfectants."

Cottonwood Distr.

This is the name of a new mining district which has been discovered and located in Cottonwood canyon north of Pyramid Lake. The ledge is clearly defined and the ore is silver bearing, some assays running up into the hundreds. Messrs. B. F. Murphy, Gleason and others are interested, and there are about 12 locations in the district. The work of development has just begun but the owners are very confident that the new find is a bonanza. The same parties were interested in the Miller district near Salt Marsh. The GAZETTE is informed that the mines in Miller district have been bonded and the parties will proceed with the work of development. A road has lately been built to the new district.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Nevada City Illuminated by the Electric Light.

NEVADA CITY, May 7.

Last night the town was for the first time illuminated with the electric light. Three lamps only were used, being suspended from a temporary scaffold erected upon the roof of the Court house. The lamps threw a bright and steady light and illuminated for a long distance. During the evening the streets presented a lively appearance, throngs of people having come in from the outskirts of the town to get a good look at the wonderful light, which many of them had never seen before. The experiment now being made is done by way of demonstration on the part of the California Electric Light Company to the citizens, to show what the light will do, as it is necessary to raise $1,000 by private subscription in order to insure success, the Board of City Trustees having gone to the limit allowed in the charter by appropriating $2,000. There is not now the least doubt about raising $1,000. Six lamps will be put up immediately.

Personal.

D. Circe, of Carson, is at the Arcade.

P. N. Marker was in Reno last night.

J. P. Foulkes, Mayor of Essex, is in Reno.

J. L. Stewart, Philadelphia, is at the Depot.

Dick Dwyer, the well-known traveler, is at the Depot.

Nelson Martin, of Truckee, was in Reno yesterday.

J. H. Harcourt of Franktown, is again at his post.

Mrs. John Wilson is improving steadily, although still very ill.

Ed. Niles, editor of the Carson Times, is in Reno looking at the flowers.

E. J. Parkinson of the Nevada Tribune, attended the K. of P. social last evening, and returned to the Capital this morning.

Sail Drifting.

On Thursday afternoon the fishermen saw the body of R. P. Ferguson pass through the recess in the dam at Camp 20. They immediately sought the telegraph office and sent word to Verdi. B. F. Bacon, J. P. Foulkes, and about thirty others, were constantly on the look-out for the body, but nothing further was seen of it. A look-out should be established at Reno, unless it is too late. It seems hard that poor Ferguson's body cannot rest, even in death, but must be carried on and buffeted about by the merciless waters that took his life. Better heart than was in the breast of R. P. Ferguson never beat, and the same bravery which made him serve his country and defend her flag, led him to his death. It surely seems that one who in his life was manly, and who died to save a fellow man, has earned a quiet and honored grave.

Steamboat Springs.

Rev. C. McKelvey and Chas. Knost visited Steamboat yesterday to see whether the grounds were suitable for picnic parties. Mr. McKelvey was very much pleased with his reception by Moeller & Co., and thinks the grounds will be ample. The Methodist Sunday School picnic will probably be held either at Poor's Garden or Steamboat. The GAZETTE is informed that the Congregationalists propose going to Carson.

A Father.

J. T. Davis is a happy father and is glad of it. The little lady arrived in Reno yesterday afternoon and is already impressed with our wonderful climate and the certainty that Reno will come to be a great commercial center. She will make her home among us.

Frozen Falshood.

You Reno liars, stand up and see what you can do after reading this. An exchange tells about a Chicago commercial traveler, or "drummer," who was caught in a forty-seven-degrees below zero cold snap in Minnesota one night, sleeping in a room without any fire. They found him in the morning frozen stiff, all except his cheek. During the four hours that it took to thaw him out he was able to converse freely with the assembled crowd, and took orders for over $6,000 worth of goods. He says he can do more business when he is perfectly cool than at any other time.
